

Webvizio Accepted into Techstars Oakland Accelerator Program

Oakland, California Mar 14, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - Pittsburgh-based startup Webvizio, the revolutionary website feedback and collaboration platform, is thrilled to announce that it has been accepted into one of the nation's most renowned startup accelerator programs, Techstars Oakland. The accelerator program is powered by J.P. Morgan and is located near Silicon Valley.

Techstars is renowned for fostering innovation and providing unparalleled support to startups, and Webvizio is excited to join its next cohort. Through this accelerator program, Webvizio will gain access to a vast network of mentors, industry experts, and investors, who can help to propel the company to new heights.

"We are incredibly proud to be accepted into the Spring '24 Class of Techstars Oakland," said Dan Ponomarenko, co-founder and CEO of Webvizio.

"This opportunity is a testament to our team's hard work and dedication. Techstars has a proven track record of propelling startups to success, and we are confident that their guidance and support will play a pivotal role in Webvizio's journey," he added.

Webvizio aims to revolutionize the way teams collaborate on website development projects, by providing a single platform where clients, managers, and development teams can interact, effectively streamlining the collaborative process. With Techstars' support, Webvizio believes it can solidify its position as a leader in the website feedback and collaboration space.

As a result of its participation in Techstars Oakland, Webvizio anticipates significant growth and development opportunities. Ponomarenko added, “By providing our team with access to top-tier mentors and successful entrepreneurs, Techstars is positioning us to succeed at our goal of transforming the digital collaboration industry.”
