

Stevie Hawkins & The Blues Messiahs Perform At International Blues Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony

An electrifying blues music performance left a lasting impression on attendees at 2024 International Blues Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony.

Los Angeles, California May 7, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Stevie Hawkins & The Blues Messiahs, known for their dynamic sound and electrifying performances, put forth an impressive set of music for the audience at the International Blues Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony on April 14, 2024, in Birmingham, Alabama, where band leader Stevie Hawkins was officially inducted as a "Legendary Blues Artist." The band's fusion of blues, rock, and soul left an undeniable lasting impression, solidifying their status as a powerhouse trio in the music industry.

"The sound, music, and energy this band puts out are incredible," remarked Jim Newport, ambassador to the International Blues Hall of Fame. Newport continued, "The luminaries in attendance at the induction ceremony were very moved and impressed by what they saw and heard."

The band's prodigious performance at the prestigious event showcased their individual talent and passion for the blues genre. Stevie Hawkins' remarkable vocals and drumming, paired with the tight, creatively expressive instrumentation by guitarist and vocalist Tommy Cox and bass guitarist and vocalist Steve Carr, created a mesmerizing experience for all in the audience.

"We are honored to have had the opportunity to perform at the International Blues Hall of Fame induction ceremony," said Stevie Hawkins. Hawkins continued, "It was a truly unforgettable experience for Tommy, Steve, and myself, and we are grateful for the recognition and support from the blues community."

Based in Knoxville, Tennessee, band members Hawkins, Cox, and Carr have shared concert stages with many recording artists over the years, including Johnny Winter, Albert King, John Lee Hooker, James Cotton, Chick Willis, Leon Russell, Bob Margolin, Ruthie Foster, Chuck Berry, Percy Sledge, the Marshall Tucker Band, Charlie Daniels Band, and Gregg Allman.

Stevie Hawkins & The Blues Messiahs push the boundaries of traditional blues music, infusing their own unique style and energy into every performance. Their appearance at the International Blues Hall of Fame induction ceremony further cements their reputation as a must-see act in the music world.
