

axiusSoftware collaborates with Local NGO to Launch Free Computer Education for Needy Children in Kolkata, India

kolkata, West bengal May 25, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Embarking on an initiative to empower needy children with essential computer education, axiusSoftware has partnered with a leading Kolkata-based NGO to unveil Drive4Digital.

Drive4Digital is committed to offering complimentary computer education to children from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, equipping them with essential digital skills vital for success in the contemporary landscape.

This innovative program commenced in 2024, will enroll approximately 100 students annually, emphasizing the importance of technological education. It will offer comprehensive computer literacy courses covering essential skills such as basic computer operations, internet usage, software applications, and digital literacy, opening up future educational and career opportunities for these young minds.

Through hands-on training and interactive sessions, participating children will gain practical knowledge and confidence in using technology for learning and personal growth, offering them a pathway to an empowered future.

Commenting on the initiative, co-founders of axiusSoftware Jayanta Nandi and Kiki Li mention, “Driving positivity and being responsible for our society cultivates within the values of our company. We believe in leveraging technology for positive social impact. Through Drive4Digital, we aspire to create equal opportunities for children, regardless of their socio-economic background.”

As part of its commitment to sustainability, axiusSoftware will provide ongoing support and resources to ensure the long-term success and scalability of the program. Additionally, the NGO will collaborate with local schools and community centers to reach a broader audience of needy children in Kolkata.
