healthcare, Dr. Darlene Button is transforming the way patients experience healing at her private practice in Metamora and Plymouth, Michigan. With a deep understanding that true wellness stems from addressing the spirit first, she emphasizes the importance of reconnecting with lost aspects of oneself to achieve holistic health.

"Much as horses are able to help you with non-verbal communication because they take in the world and all of its stimuli as a whole and not separately, I see you as a whole, and I help you to see what you have lost on your path through life and help you to recapture it. This helps evolve the wholeness that most of us see as health."
