

Intelligent Diva Selects Vimeo as the Platform to Release Her Music Visuals for her New Single Darkest Pain

Jacksonville, Florida May 15, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Vimeo is a video streaming platform that caters to creators, Intelligent Diva who has a subscription to Vimeo has chosen this platform over YouTube to release her content. Chincia K, born as Intelligent Diva feels that it is about quality and not quantity sometimes. While this is not about Vimeo, this is about visuals for Darkest Pain which taps into a true story that the music artist shares about a relationship in which she was involved. The relationship took her into a dark place, where she felt at her lowest point. So low that she did not even want to go to her own home.

The artist decided that therapy and prayer would be the solution. The therapy was to learn more about what was causing her to take the individual back. It helped her with communication to learn more about the behavior of the person she was involved with. She decided on what that was and learned about the behavior of the person she was involved which helped her to move on. This also channeled her as a writer to tap into her artistry in everything she enjoys. Music is how she deals with stress and depression. In the album Music Is Art, she brought out the character Songbird as a skit, as a voice over where she calls into the podcast. However, this situation allowed Intelligent Diva to dive into her artistry. Intelligent Diva states Darkest Pain is Part 2 of Pain, where as an artist and creator she does not just tap into singing, it also allows her to tap into an actor and a voice actor.

In the hit single Pain, from the Stop Calling Me Ep and the Music is Art Album, the music artist introduces the world to her voice acting skills with her improv skit which is the intro to the single Pain and the Outro to Pain which goes right into her hit single User. Now, she returns with her new single, which is a country rock single called Darkest Pain, where the music visuals include improv. Intelligent Diva plays the therapist and Songbird who appears on the IDM podcast. In the podcast introduction, the therapist references how Songbird once told the world about how her ex caused her Pain and how he was a user.

This time under Darkest Pain, she appears in person and does the exercise to share how she is feeling now, and tells her story in song, which leads to the first verse which is called Episode 1 "The Return of Songbird". Intelligent Diva tells us that she will follow up with additional episodes from Songbird which will lead to Episode 2 which will lead to the second verse. Future episodes will appear with new song releases.

The musical creator is the director and has collaborated with various entrepreneurs, contractors, and freelancers for this project. Darkest Pain is currently on both rock and country digital radio stations.
