With a strong background in clinical research, healthcare management, and patient experience, Dr. Kuhn brings a wealth of expertise to his role at MUSC Children's Health. His journey to becoming a leading authority in pediatric gastroenterology began with his undergraduate studies at Cornell University in New York, followed by medical school at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Alongside his clinical practice, Dr. Kuhn also serves as a Professor of Pediatrics at the Medical University of South Carolina, where he mentors future healthcare professionals and contributes to cutting-edge research in the field.

Prior to joining MUSC Children's Health, Dr. Kuhn was at Geisinger in Pennsylvania for over a decade, where he was a pediatric gastroenterologist and served as a regional director of pediatrics for the system. He also chaired the pediatric patient experience committee, where he implemented strategies to improve patient satisfaction and outcomes.

Dr. Kuhn's commitment to advancing the field of pediatric gastroenterology is exemplified by his specialization in allergic gastrointestinal conditions, particularly Eosinophilic Esophagitis (EoE).
