

Judan Government-in-Exile Announces Referendum for Bir Tawil, Africa

Quest to become the newest sovereign nation on the African continent

Aswan, Egypt Jun 27, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - The Republic of Judan Government-in-Exile, under the leadership of the Fourth International Security Council, the successor of Third International, has approved a resolution to hold a referendum for the current residents of Bir Tawil, Africa. This referendum will determine whether the residents wish to join the Republic of Judan and support its bid to become the newest recognized sovereign state on the African continent.

All residents of Bir Tawil who meet the eligibility criteria will be invited to participate, ensuring that every voice is heard and every vote counts. The government is committed to transparency and accountability throughout the referendum process.

The Republic of Judan Government-in-Exile invites the residents of Bir Tawil to participate in this historic referendum and shape the future of their community. Together, we can build a better future for all. The date of the referendum will be determined and released in the near future.

About

The Republic of Judan, a government-in-exile, has laid claim to a portion of the Bir Tawil territory, a unique area of land that is not officially claimed by any sovereign nation. Bir Tawil, a 2,060 square kilometer (795 square mile) patch of land located along the border between Egypt and Sudan, has remained terra nullius.

The Republic of Judan seeks to establish a sovereign nation within this unclaimed territory, aiming to secure a 1,613 square kilometer (623 square mile) area of Bir Tawil. This region is known to have a small population, estimated to be around 1,000 inhabitants.

The Republic of Judan Government-in-Exile has recently engaged in a significant diplomatic effort to secure international recognition and establish a network of diplomatic relations. The government-in-exile has been actively reaching out to various nations, seeking official and unofficial channels of communication to further their cause.

The government-in-exile has been working tirelessly to present its case to the international community, highlighting its commitment to democratic principles, human rights, and economic development. The government-in-exile is committed to fostering a peaceful and prosperous nation that contributes positively to global stability and cooperation.

The government-in-exile is grateful for the support and encouragement it has received from various quarters and remains committed to working towards a more peaceful world.
