

Author Nila Joseph's debut book "Oh Dear Dandelions!" teaches kids problem solving and creativity!

McKinney, Texas Jul 7, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Spring has sprung, and Mother's garden is filled to the brim with all kinds of beautiful spring flowers. But.. uh oh! Trouble blooms when the colorful blossoms are met with an unwelcome guest, as thousands of yellow dandelions take over the garden! Our mother-daughter duo are faced with the task of finding a creative solution for the sudden overgrowth. Together, they utilize the versatile properties of the plant to make clever use of the weeds into something new. Follow their whimsical adventure as they use problem solving skills, combined effort, hard work, and resourcefulness as they navigate their unique circumstances!

Teen author and illustrator, Nila Joseph, hopes to inspire kids to see the beauty of family relations and the natural world in her first book. The original illustrations capture the beauty and spirit of the rolling hills of northern California where she grew up and watched her own mother grow flowers every spring.

With poetic writing reminiscent of vintage picture books accompanied by vibrant pastel-inspired illustrations, this book is sure to be a delightful read for the whole family!

"Oh Dear Dandelions!" releases worldwide on July 7th, 2024, and is available for purchase on Amazon. All proceeds from this book will benefit Rainforest Trust, an organization for forest conservation greatly supported by Nila.
