This significant appointment reflects the government's commitment to preserving its rich cultural heritage, promoting indigenous rights, and strengthening its international presence. In his expanded role, Ambassador and Minister :Glenroy-Walker: will represent the Nyan-Ko-Pong Maroon Government on the global stage, engaging with international organizations, foreign governments, and non-governmental entities to advocate for the Maroon Nation. He will also lead the Ministry of Roots, Culture, and Artistry, which is dedicated to the education, preservation, and promotion of Maroon, Indigenous, and Afrocentric communities.

Minister of Roots, Culture, and Artistry

As the Minister of Roots, Culture, and Artistry, :Glenroy-Walker: will be responsible for developing and implementing initiatives that celebrate and safeguard the cultural traditions of the Maroon people. His ministry will focus on educating both Maroon descendants and the global community about the historical and contemporary significance of Maroon culture, as well as the broader Indigenous and Afrocentric heritage.

Key objectives of the ministry include:

Cultural Education and Awareness: Launching educational programs and campaigns to raise awareness about Maroon history, language, and spiritual practices. These programs will be designed to empower Maroon communities and educate the wider public about the contributions of Maroons, Indigenous peoples, and Afrocentric cultures to global

History and society

Cultural Preservation: Working to preserve Maroon art, music, dance, and oral traditions, ensuring that these vital aspects of cultural identity are passed down to future generations. Community Empowerment: Collaborating with Indigenous and Afrocentric communities to develop initiatives that promote economic empowerment, social justice, and cultural pride. Global Advocacy: Representing the Maroon Nation in international forums to advocate for the rights of Indigenous peoples, ensuring that their voices are heard in global discussions on culture, human rights, and sustainable development.

Ambassador and Diplomat

In his capacity as Ambassador and Diplomat, Glenroy-Walker will engage in a series of diplomatic missions aimed at securing international recognition for the Nyan-Ko-Pong Maroon Government. His efforts will include fostering partnerships with like-minded nations, indigenous groups, and international organizations that share a commitment to protecting cultural heritage and promoting the rights of marginalized communities.

Ambassador and Minister Glenroy-Walker brings a wealth of experience to these roles, with over five decades of leadership in supporting communities in Jamaica, the Caribbean, and the United States. His extensive background as a serial entrepreneur, investor, and philanthropist uniquely positions him to lead these efforts, combining traditional values with innovative approaches to community development and diplomacy.

"It is an immense honor to serve as Ambassador, Minister of Roots, Culture, and Artistry, and Diplomat for the Nyan-Ko-Pong Maroon Government," said :Glenroy-Walker:. "I am committed to upholding the legacy of the Maroon people and to ensuring that our rich cultural heritage is celebrated, preserved, and respected on the global stage. Through my ministry, I aim to empower our communities and educate the world about the profound impact of Maroon, Indigenous, and Afrocentric cultures."
