

Jian Garcia Cruz, MD: A Rising Star in Internal Medicine and Future Cardiology Fellow

University of Texas Rio Grande Valley Chief Resident Combines Passion for Medicine with Commitment to Community Service

New York City, New York Aug 20, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - A dedicated physician, Dr. Cruz is the Chief Resident in Internal Medicine at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley and a future candidate for a Cardiology fellowship.

Born and raised in Puerto Rico, she has always been committed to improving healthcare access for underserved populations. She earned her medical degree from the Universidad Autónoma de Guadalajara, where she not only excelled academically but also engaged deeply with her community.

During her time in medical school, Dr. Cruz collaborated with several non-profit organizations, providing free medical services to those in need. Her humanitarian spirit led her to participate in medical missionary trips to countries such as Venezuela, Ecuador, Mexico, and her home island of Puerto Rico, where she witnessed firsthand the challenges faced by marginalized communities in accessing healthcare.

As the Chief Resident of Internal Medicine at UTRGV, she is recognized for her leadership skills, compassionate patient care, and commitment to medical education. She leads a team of residents, guiding them in their training while also contributing to research initiatives aimed at improving patient outcomes. She is particularly interested in the field of cardiology, where she hopes to specialize and continue her mission of serving underserved communities.

Outside of her rigorous medical career, Dr. Cruz enjoys playing sports, which she finds to be a perfect balance to her demanding schedule. She also cherishes her time spent with her German shepherd and family, valuing the importance of work-life balance in maintaining her well-being.
