Born and raised in Ponca City, Oklahoma, his commitment to delivering exceptional healthcare is deeply rooted in his desire to serve his community.

Boasting an impressive educational background, he earned his Bachelor's degree from Northeastern State University and went on to complete his Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree at Oklahoma State University's College of Osteopathic Medicine. His rigorous training continued with an emergency medicine residency at Integris Southwest Medical Center. He is board certified by the American Osteopathic Board of Emergency Medicine, ensuring he meets the highest standards of practice.

Dr. Blubaugh spent 13 years practicing and teaching emergency medicine at Oklahoma State University Medical Center. During this time, he saw the need for more efficient, personalized, patient-focused care. This position has afforded him the ability to spend more time with patients and experience both the administrative and political aspects of healthcare within the state. "Our physicians and staff strive to create an atmosphere, where the patient feels heard and receives healthcare that is above and beyond."

"Personal patient care is the most important part of medicine," he emphasizes.
