Taking a Contrarian View

We see opportunities in assets, businesses, markets and sectors that are out of favor or in distress.

Fundamental research focused on value

Our fundamental portfolio managers and analysts belong to research clusters organized by global sectors.

This format brings a cross-trained group of sector specialists together to critique and debate each investment idea for Causeway's developed market strategies, looking to buy or sell at the right price and at the right time. Their expertise is complemented by quantitative risk modeling.

Quantitative research focused on multi-factor alpha and risk management

Our quantitative portfolio managers and analysts manage Causeway's emerging markets and international small cap strategies, and a portion of our international and global opportunities strategies, and provide screening and risk management tools to the fundamental investment process for our other strategies. In-depth knowledge from fundamental research enriches the empirical quantitative analysis.

We are committed to acting in the long-term interests of all our stakeholders. This mission drives us to invest responsibly, operate our business with integrity, and build a diverse and inclusive workplace where our employees can thrive.
