About the Issues:

• Domestic Abuse

In California, domestic abuse remains a significant issue, with 34.9% of women and 31.1% of men experiencing intimate partner physical violence in their lifetimes. In 2018, Los Angeles law enforcement received 166,890 domestic violence-related calls, highlighting the pervasive nature of this issue. That same year, domestic violence constituted 20% of all violent crimes.

• Sexual Assault

In 2022, there were 3,869 reported sexual assaults in Los Angeles County, and in 2023, over 18,000 rape incidents were reported across California. Among high school students in the Los Angeles Unified School District, 6.7% (approximately 13,854 students) reported experiencing physical date violence, indicating the widespread impact of sexual violence on young individuals.

• Human Trafficking

California has the highest rate of human trafficking in the United States, with 1,334 cases and 2,122 survivors reported. In 2018, nearly 10% of homeless individuals in Los Angeles County reported being trafficked for sex or labor. Additionally, approximately one in five homeless youth in California has experienced trafficking, with 14% experiencing sex trafficking, 8% labor trafficking, and 3% enduring both forms.

About The Los Angeles Center for Law and Justice

The Los Angeles Center for Law and Justice is a specialized legal and humanitarian movement advocating for vulnerable survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, and human trafficking. Since 1973, LACLJ has provided legal services to communities that face multiple barriers to accessing justice.

About 80% of family law cases involve at least one self-represented person, largely because they cannot afford an attorney. In LA County, this statistic is representative of over 16,000 survivors! Without access to legal representation, survivors can lose restraining order protection, custody of their children, and their visitation rights as parents.

LACLJ provides survivors with an expert attorney and a dedicated advocate in and outside of the courtroom. We not only help to address survivors' legal battles but also connect families to the resources they need to build self-sufficiency and create more hopeful futures. <https://www.laclj.org>
