Through this partnership, UPay360 now offers its customers the option to pay utility bills, including water, sewer, electric or solar, with cash at thousands of MoneyGram locations across the United States.

"We're committed to giving our customers convenient options to complete their business with the Municipality," on behalf of the City of Menlo Park. "Being able to pay your utility bill during a trip to the pharmacy, grocery store or convenience store is one more example of our promise to get City citizens stay current on their utility bill."

Customers can pay their bills in cash at any participating MoneyGram location in the country. They simply need to provide their bills' account number and servicing address, which can be found in their utility bill or email. Upon paying, the payment will be updated instantly in the Util360 Finance system, and customers will receive their processed receipt in the forthcoming bill.

"Our customers will have the option now to pay at convenient MoneyGram locations, enjoying the convenience of processing a utility payment without making a trip to their local city office," added She'ma Zabid, President of 360S2G, Inc.

In addition to its physical and digital cross-border money transfer network, MoneyGram is a leader of walk-in bill payments in the United States and processes millions of these transactions each year.

Visit the respective municipalities website to search for in-person payment locations in your city and find the nearest payment location near you.
