

Angela Renee Ingram, MD, Assistant Attending Anesthesiologist at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center

Specializing in Anesthesiology and Pediatric Anesthesiology with a Focus on Patient-Centered Care

New York City, New York Sep 6, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Dr. Angela Renee Ingram, a dual board certified pediatric anesthesiologist specializing in perioperative anesthetic care and acute pain management, practices at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York, New York. With a particular interest in pediatric regional anesthesia, she is committed to providing comprehensive care to her patients, ensuring comfort and safety before, during, and after surgical procedures.

Dr. Ingram's collaboration with a multidisciplinary team of expert surgeons, nurses, certified registered nurse anesthetists, physician assistants, and other operating room personnel reflects her dedication to delivering the highest standard of care. At MSKCC, she not only focuses on the technical aspects of anesthesia but also prioritizes creating a safe and supportive environment for individuals to heal. The unique physician-patient relationship Dr. Ingram develops with her patients and their families is one of the most rewarding aspects of her role, as she strives to ensure that they feel heard, valued, and cared for throughout their treatment journey.

Dr. Ingram's impressive educational background began at Columbia University's Vagelos College of Physicians and Surgeons, where she graduated in 2012. She completed her residency in anesthesiology at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York, followed by a fellowship in pediatric anesthesiology at UPMC Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh in 2017. This extensive training has equipped her with the skills required to manage complex cases, particularly for pediatric patients who require specialized acute pain management strategies.

Beyond her clinical duties, Dr. Ingram embraces life in New York City, enjoying its diverse culinary landscape and the vibrant cultural celebrations that reflect the city's rich tapestry. She also cherishes spending quality time with her son, exploring new playgrounds and fostering a sense of wonder about the world.

As an integral member of the MSKCC team, Dr. Ingram continues to advance the field of anesthesiology while embodying the center's mission of patient-focused care. Her passion for her work and her commitment to her patients ensures that they receive not only exceptional medical care but also the compassion and understanding they deserve.
