

Book Release: An on time, right time Publication. The PROMISE(S) of AMERICA

This book requires engagement of your mind and ultimately will engage your soul. It's about the power of perspective.

Detroit, Michigan Oct 14, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - "If we continue to accept what we get, we'll keep getting what we got".

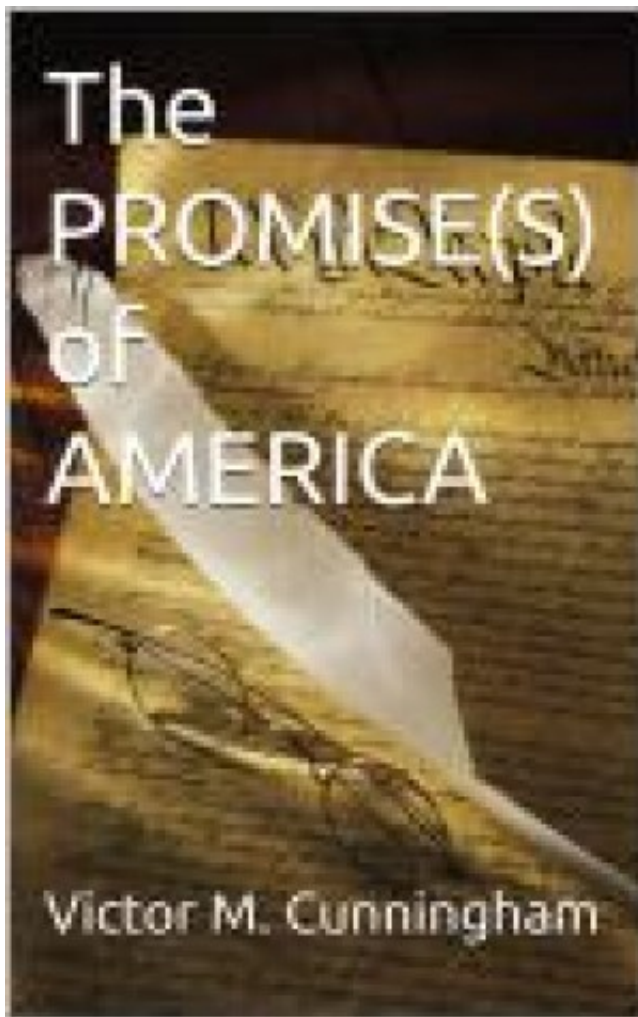

History plays a role in shaping the future and cannot/should not be ignored. True change usually follows turbulent, unexpected events that force conversation and conscience. America is at that junction, and the citizens of America are the only ones that can choose the proper direction. The only solution is how the citizens go forward with their actions and their votes. Citizens have always been the gatekeepers of this great and flawed nation. This book provides the history of how America landed where is today. This book provides some answers to the complexities of today and will assist in guiding us through the maze America finds itself in. This book provides subtle and not so subtle reminders of the grit, determination and effort required to make the necessary changes and adjustments to help this nation keep its "promises". Opinions alone will not sway the masses. There are factual charts, graphs and illustrations that support the opinions in the publication. You cannot read this book and not be enlightened and motivated to rise above yourself for a greater cause!

"What you do matters, what you don't do matters".

This book tackles two thought paths. It is first and foremost about the promises that America made to all its citizens, where America fell short and why. It chronicles the role that "We the People" had and still have in shaping this experiment called democracy. It provides factual information combined with pictorial information that tells a story. It also provides some logic-based suggestions and the tools to make it happen that will aid in making it better for all. The truth is not always easy to digest, but once digested, one can move forward with vigor and purpose. That is our task, and this is said with confidence that with the right information and nudging, America will get there. If ever there was a time that "We the People was needed, it is now. Let's go!
