

Nick Jonas ran off from the Stage in Prague as a Laser was Pointed at him

Nick Jonas abruptly runs off from the stage during his show in Prague. A laser light was directly pointed at him, which scared the artist and led him to pause the show.

Prague, Praha Oct 17, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - Nick Jonas ran off from the stage for safety during the concert in Prague on Tuesday. The singer fled from the stage when he noticed a laser light pointed directly at him. From a video, it was seen that Nick suddenly stood up and did a 'time out' ASL sign and ran within seconds. He ran through a lane between two barriers of fans. This video has created a sense of fear all over the internet. Currently, Nick Jonas is on the 'Jonas Brothers World Tour' with his brothers, Joe Jonas and Kevin Jonas. Right after he left the stage, they also came down from the stage after some time.

On the internet, there is a slow-motion clip of the same video, where it was clearly seen that a red laser light was pointed at his head. Experiencing this kind of act at their own show is quite dangerous and scary. The show was conducted at the O2 Arena in Prague. After this incident, one of the spokespersons said 'We can confirm that the Jonas Brothers' performance had to be interrupted for several minutes due to the use of a prohibited laser pointer by the person. The organizing service responded to this fact. After a few minutes, the band continued their performance'.

Any of the Jonas brothers didn't respond to the videos online till now. However, Joe has posted a few videos from that show but didn't show the scary videos. This incident has created fear among his fans too. Many have shared their opinion online and said 'This is terrifying...and could have horrible consequences so please stop complaining about the artists who have to cancel their shows'. Another person wrote 'He's so scared. This breaks my heart. He's a father and husband first. People need to be more mindful.

The Jonas Brothers continued the show after some time. They are currently doing a world tour to celebrate their five successful albums. Previously, Nick experienced such an inconvenience in his show in Boston last year. While performing, the artist fell into a hole. However, he got up quickly and continued performing. As of now, there isn't any update regarding the act and they will do their remaining shows.
