

Quality New Zealand Education Opens New Office in Chandigarh, Advancing its Mission to Democratize Global Education

Quality New Zealand Education opens its third office in Chandigarh, led by CEO Dr. Nitya Prakash with cricket icons Fleming, McCullum, and Vettori, to democratize education across India, offering global learning and skill development opportunities.

Chandigarh, India Nov 3, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Quality New Zealand Education, a leading provider of innovative, global education solutions, has officially opened its new office at Elante, Chandigarh, marking its third strategic location following Christchurch and Mumbai. The office launch, a high-profile event attended by prominent government officials and key stakeholders from the education sector, underscores Quality New Zealand's commitment to making high-quality education accessible and affordable for all.

The establishment of the Chandigarh office is a significant step forward for Quality New Zealand Education. The organization, led by its visionary CEO Dr. Nitya Prakash, aims to bridge educational divides by fostering cross-cultural knowledge exchange and enabling accessible education across India and New Zealand. Dr. Prakash envisions this new office as a cornerstone in realizing Quality New Zealand's mission to democratize education, with a focus on reaching underserved regions and creating personalized learning experiences.

In his statement, Dr. Prakash shared, "The opening of our office in Chandigarh brings us one step closer to democratizing education. Our goal is to make learning opportunities available to every student, regardless of location or background. By establishing this office in Chandigarh, we aim to catalyze educational transformation in Northern India, allowing students access to global resources, world-class mentorship, and robust skill development programs."

Owned and supported by a powerhouse team, including cricket legends Stephen Fleming, Brendon McCullum, and Daniel Vettori—each of whom serves as an ambassador and shareholder—Quality New Zealand Education is uniquely positioned to drive positive change in education. These cricketers share deep ties with India, lending their influence and commitment to the organization's mission. Patron Sir Richard Hadlee, a celebrated figure in international cricket, further bolsters Quality New Zealand's leadership, imbuing the organization with both the legacy and credibility essential for fostering trust and impact.

The Chandigarh office will serve as a central hub for Quality New Zealand's education and training initiatives in India, focusing on skill development, cultural exchange programs, and leveraging New Zealand's globally recognized standards in education. The new location will also provide localized support and tailored programs for students and professionals across North India, empowering them with the skills needed to succeed in today's digital-first world.

The grand opening event witnessed the presence of distinguished guests from the government, academia, and leading education companies, reflecting the widespread support for Quality New Zealand's mission. Guests included representatives from the Ministry of Education, leaders from prominent universities, and CEOs of renowned education companies, all of whom expressed enthusiasm for Quality New Zealand's efforts to create a more inclusive, future-ready education ecosystem.

With a bold vision, strong leadership, and unwavering dedication to the principles of accessible and personalized education, Quality New Zealand Education's new office in Chandigarh is set to become a beacon of educational innovation, furthering the company's impact across India and beyond.
