Rhode Island – Siobhan Brady, PA-C, a certified physician assistant at Aspire Dermatology, LLC, is dedicated to providing exceptional dermatological care to patients throughout the region. With extensive training and a deep passion for skin health, Siobhan offers a wide range of services, including full skin exams and treatments for various skin conditions such as actinic keratosis, dermatitis, dry skin, excessive sweating, impetigo, keloids, moles, skin tags, warts, psoriasis, rosacea, and shingles. Additionally, she administers Dysport injections, which are effective in preventing and reducing wrinkles around the eyes, forehead, and lip areas.

Siobhan's journey into dermatology was deeply personal. Struggling with acne and eczema in her youth, she developed a keen understanding of the emotional and physical challenges associated with skin conditions. This experience ignited her desire to help others navigate their skin health challenges. She earned her Bachelor of Liberal Arts in Biology from Assumption College in Worcester, Massachusetts, where she excelled both academically and athletically as a member of the women's soccer team.

Before pursuing her passion for dermatology, Siobhan worked as an intraoperative neurophysiologist and medical device representative, gaining valuable clinical experience in various Greater Boston hospitals. As the daughter of a firefighter, her commitment to patient care was further enhanced by her volunteer work at The Arthur C. Luf Camp for Pediatric Burn Victims, where she witnessed the resilience of the skin and the impact of compassionate care on young patients and their families. This pivotal experience propelled Siobhan to earn a Master of Medical Science Degree in Physician Assistant Studies from Bethel University, where she served as a student representative for the American Academy of Physician Associates.

As an active member of both the American Academy of Physician Assistants and the Society of Dermatology Physician Assistants, Siobhan stays at the forefront of advancements in dermatological care. Her expertise encompasses treating common conditions such as acne and skin cancer, performing excisions and cosmetic procedures, and fostering a supportive environment that empowers her patients to feel confident in their skin.
