

Tyler Whitney, PsyD: Renowned Clinical Psychologist, Neurobehavioral Specialist, Forensic Expert

Leading Authority in Autism Spectrum and Neurodevelopmental Disorders

New York City, New York Nov 12, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Tyler Whitney, PsyD, a licensed clinical psychologist with over two decades of experience, is making significant strides in the field of autism spectrum disorders (ASD) and neurodevelopmental research. Based in the North Fulton County area of Atlanta, Georgia, Dr. Whitney provides comprehensive psychological services to children, adolescents, young adults, and families dealing with issues of self-regulation, relational development, and cognitive dysfunction.

Since 2015, Dr. Whitney has also served as an Adjunct Associate Professor at the prestigious Emory University School of Medicine as part of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences. In this role, he shares his expertise through lectures on critical topics such as clinical and developmental psychopathology, the legal standards in educational systems, and the impact of neurodevelopmental disorders within the criminal justice system with forensic psychiatry fellows and forensic psychology post-doctoral students on the Psychiatry & Law service. His commitment to education and awareness within the field is evident in his active participation in academic, research, and community settings.

Dr. Whitney earned his PsyD in Clinical Psychology from the Forest Institute of Professional Psychology (FIPP) in 2001. His extensive training includes a predoctoral clinical internship at St. Charles Hospital (Long Island NY), a pediatric neuropsychology fellowship at Henry Ford Health (HFH), and a developmental psychology fellowship at The Connections Center-RDI Autism Intervention. In 2010, he was honored to complete a two-year Leadership Education in Neurodevelopmental and Related Disabilities (LEND) Fellowship through URLEND, further enhancing his qualifications.

An advocate for families facing medical and developmental challenges, Dr. Whitney has conducted impactful outcome research and published valuable resources aimed at helping children navigate their unique circumstances. His two decades of clinical experience, coupled with 23 years focused on autism and developmental disabilities, position him as a trusted expert in his field.

In addition to his clinical work, Dr. Whitney was selected for a vital role as Co-Chair of the Atlanta Autism Consortium Board of Directors and is an active member of the International Society of Autism Research. He frequently lectures and consults with hospitals, residential facilities, and school districts nationwide, sharing his insights and fostering collaboration to improve care for individuals with autism and related disorders.

Dr. Whitney's unique blend of clinical, developmental, and forensic psychology expertise allows him to articulate complex scientific concepts effectively, supporting forensic cases in court and the media. He remains dedicated to maintaining his professional integrity and objectivity in all aspects of his work.

Residing in Forsyth County, Georgia, with his wife Jane and their children, Dr. Whitney balances his professional commitments with a fulfilling family life, embodying the values he imparts to his clients and community.
