With a dedicated team, FreshFarmer connects coffee producers to the fast growing market using advanced technology.

The most important aspect of the platform is what it offers to the coffee community. FreshFarmer offers a space to farmers for selling their high-quality coffee beans. This B2B marketplace is open for national and international farmers which will help them in the expansion of their business. From the buyer's point of view, they will have access to a wide range of quality beans at a fair price. Not only this but with the platform, wholesale buyers will be able to choose from shipping options according to their needs.

It is easy for coffee farmers to register on the platform and sell their products at competitive prices. Coffee farmers need to fill out an online registration form after which an assigned supervisor will visit the farm to collect information about the products. This information is uploaded to the FreshFarmer's system and your farm is added to the list of featured producers. Once your farm is uploaded you start selling through the online platform. The team at FreshFarmer will soon start connecting your products with wholesale buyers to help expand your business. Buyers looking for high-quality green coffee beans wholesale can register on the platform to explore the available coffee lots. They can place an order for the selected lot by providing the necessary information and completing the payment. FreshFarmer is responsible for preparing and shipping the order according to the shipping options selected by the buyer.
