

Kolkata's Rising Star: How Ankit Chowdhury Built FlikerEx at Just 19

A Lower-Middle-Class Teen's Journey to Building a Global Video Editing Empire with FlikerEx

kolkata, West bengal Dec 4, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - At just 19 years old, Ankit Chowdhury has already made a name for himself in the world of digital entrepreneurship. Known as Ryan to some and MrFliker to his growing online community, Ankit is not only a skilled video editor and YouTuber but also the founder of FlikerEx, a fast-growing media agency. His rise to success has made him one of the youngest digital entrepreneurs of 2023, and his story is nothing short of inspiring.

A Journey of Hard Work and Passion

Growing up in Kolkata in a lower-middle-class family, Ankit's journey is a true example of hard work and belief in oneself. Armed with an old laptop and a strong desire to improve his life, he began searching for ways to make money online.

What started as a way to support himself quickly became a passion for creativity and storytelling. Inspired by his love for technology and superheroes like Tony Stark, Ankit began trying his hand at video editing. Despite having limited resources—a “potato laptop” that could barely run editing software—he didn't give up. He watched countless tutorials and taught himself how to edit videos.

“I didn't have a mentor or anyone to guide me,” Ankit recalls. “All I had was YouTube and the will to learn. If I can do it, anyone can.”

From Small Projects to Big Goals

Ankit's freelancing career started with small steps. His first client paid him just ₹20 per minute for editing—a big difference from the $300 he now charges per video. Over time, Ankit built an impressive portfolio, working with more than 81 companies in various industries, including real estate, coaching, healthcare, and e-commerce. His ability to deliver top-quality work and his never-give-up attitude have earned him trust and respect from clients all over the world.

His agency, FlikerEx, is proof of his entrepreneurial mindset. FlikerEx specializes in video editing, YouTube channel management, and social media strategies. It has become a trusted service for content creators and businesses. What makes Ankit stand out is his focus on helping clients achieve real results, such as gaining leads and paying customers, instead of just increasing views or subscribers.

Helping Freelance Video Editors Succeed

While his personal success is impressive, Ankit's vision goes beyond his own achievements. He dreams of changing the freelance video editing industry by building a supportive community for editors. His goal is to create a platform where freelancers can connect, learn, and grow together.

“I want to create a space where editors can find clients, share knowledge, and even work together on projects,” Ankit says. “The struggles I faced as a beginner shouldn't have to be repeated by others.”

Through his YouTube channel, where he shares tips on freelancing and video editing, Ankit is already helping thousands of young creators build their careers. His videos, which combine humor with useful advice, are popular with viewers aged 18-30 who dream of starting their own businesses or agencies.

A Message for Aspiring Entrepreneurs

Despite his rapid success, Ankit remains humble and focused on inspiring others. “All dreams are achievable,” he says. “It took me six months to get my first client, and the pay was very low. But I never stopped trying. I kept learning, kept improving, and eventually, everything fell into place.”

Ankit’s story is a ray of hope for young entrepreneurs, especially those from modest backgrounds. His journey proves that with dedication, hard work, and a strong desire to learn, anyone can overcome challenges and achieve their dreams.

A Rising Star in the Digital World

As the founder of FlikerEx, Ankit Chowdhury is not just building a successful business—he’s also making an impact on the industry. Whether through his innovative services, his motivational content, or his dream of creating a thriving community for freelancers, Ankit is a name to watch in the digital space.
