

Leading the Nerd Announces Exciting New Series: Playing Every Game on IGN's Top 100 Video Games of All Time

Saint Louis, Missouri Dec 7, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - Seth and Drew, co-hosts of the popular YouTube channel Nerd Leading the Nerd, are thrilled to announce their ambitious new series, where they will embark on an exciting journey to play through all 100 games featured in IGN's "Top 100 Video Games of All Time." Starting December 30, 2024, the duo will dive deep into the classics, reliving memorable moments while discovering new adventures along the way.

Each game will get a focus week comprised of 5 days of approximately 25 minutes per episode. This gives each game about 2 hours to prove to Seth and Drew if it belongs on the list of top video games of all time.

This project is not just about gameplay; it's about building connections and sharing their passion for gaming with a community of fellow enthusiasts. Each episode will feature engaging commentary, laughs, and genuine reactions as Seth and Drew explore the stories and mechanics behind these iconic titles.

"Our goal is to connect with our viewers through gaming to build a community, whether they're familiar with these classics or experiencing them for the first time," said Seth Bunton. "We want to create a space where everyone feels welcome to relive their favorite gaming memories or discover something new."

"We hope this journey can make Seth and I better gamers and remind us why gaming is so important to us both," said Drew. "and hopefully we can find others that want to share in this epic quest."

"Throughout the series, Nerd Leading the Nerd will engage their audience through polls, Q&A sessions, and community challenges, inviting viewers to join the conversation and become part of the adventure. The duo will also be sharing behind-the-scenes content, sneak peeks, and exclusive insights as they navigate through the list."
