After earning his Doctor of Optometry Degree from the UAB School of Optometry in 1986, Dr. Moore served as a Lieutenant in the US Navy, practicing at Portsmouth Naval Hospital and N.A.S. Oceana Branch Medical Clinic. His commitment to eye care brought him back to Florence in 1989, where he has been serving the community ever since.

In 2005, Dr. Moore purchased Tomsik Eyecare and later transformed the practice into Renaissance Eye Care, relocating to its current location in English Village in 2014. At Renaissance Eye Care, Dr. Moore and his associate, Dr. Kathy Warner, specialize in general optometry, offering comprehensive vision examinations, contact lens fittings, and the diagnosis and treatment of a wide array of eye conditions. They are committed to enhancing the quality of life for their patients through advanced diagnostic technology and cutting-edge vision correction products. Their goal is to ensure that every patient receives personalized, high-quality care tailored to their individual needs, working in partnership with other area doctors at Shoals Eye Clinic, Valley Eye, and Florence Eye Center.

Dr. Moore attributes his success to the guidance and support he received from his mentors throughout his career.
