

B.F. Raid's Video for "Becky" Premieres January 18 Ahead of Feature in Loud Enough Magazine

Boston, Massachusetts Jan 13, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Boston-based heavy metal band B.F. Raid (Boston's Final Raid) is thrilled to announce the release of the video for their song "Becky". The video will premiere on Loud Enough Magazine's Facebook page and X (formerly Twitter) platform on January 18, 2025, at 9:00 PM UK time. This marks a major milestone in the band's resurgence, coinciding with their upcoming feature in Loud Enough Magazine's 11th issue.

The video for “Becky” uses AI-generated visuals to create a raw, narrative-driven experience that matches the song’s intensity and energy. The track, a standout on the band’s latest album Raided Again, reflects B.F. Raid’s unique blend of punk roots and heavy metal influences. The video not only showcases their creativity but also serves as a nod to their commitment to engaging with their audience in innovative ways.

The collaboration with Loud Enough Magazine underscores B.F. Raid’s return to the music scene after stepping away from the spotlight. Known for supporting underground rock and metal artists, Loud Enough Magazine has provided a platform for bands with compelling stories and dynamic music. Their upcoming feature will delve into B.F. Raid’s history, their journey back to performing, and the creative process behind Raided Again.

“We’re incredibly grateful to Loud Enough Magazine for their support and enthusiasm,” said Bruce Owens, guitarist for B.F. Raid. “The opportunity to release the ‘Becky’ video through their platform is exciting, and we can’t wait for their audience to see what we’ve been working on. The feature in their next issue means a lot to us as we reintroduce ourselves to the music community.”

The band’s latest album, Raided Again, has already garnered attention for its dynamic mix of heavy riffs and punk energy. Tracks like “Becky” and “Hollywood with Snakes” highlight their evolution while staying true to their roots with songs like “Angel”. The album is available on all major streaming platforms.

The release of the “Becky” video is part of B.F. Raid’s broader effort to connect with fans and share their story. Following the premiere, the band hopes to continue building momentum through collaborations, live performances, and further exploration of visual storytelling.
