

C. Dean Milne, DO: Leading the Charge in Physician Training at Internal Medicine Specialists of Las Vegas

Board-Certified Internist Bridges Academic Knowledge and Clinical Practice to Shape Future Medical Experts

New York City, New York Jan 31, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Las Vegas, Nevada – C. Dean Milne, DO, the Owner and President of Internal Medicine Specialists of Las Vegas (IMS of Las Vegas), is proud to announce the center's commitment to excellence in medical education and training for the next generation of physicians. Located adjacent to Valley Hospital Medical Center, IMS of Las Vegas serves as an Academic Center of Excellence, working closely with over 30 Internal and Family Medicine Physicians who are in the final stages of their training.

Dr. Milne, who has dedicated more than 33 years to the field of internal medicine, emphasizes the importance of hands-on experience in medical training. "At IMS of Las Vegas, we believe that the best way to prepare new physicians is through a rigorous, evidence-based training program that combines clinical practice with academic knowledge," he said. The center collaborates closely with Valley Hospital and Touro University Nevada, ensuring that trainees receive comprehensive education and practical experience.

Dr. Milne's educational background is distinguished. He earned his Bachelor of Applied Science in Pre-Medicine from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas in 1981, followed by a Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine Degree with honors from the Western University of Health Sciences - College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific in 1986. His postdoctoral training in internal medicine at University Medical Center, where he served as chief resident, laid a strong foundation for his career.

As a board-certified physician through the American Osteopathic Board of Internal Medicine, Dr. Milne actively engages with several professional organizations, including the American Osteopathic Association, the American College of Physicians, and the American College of Osteopathic Internists. His extensive experience is complemented by affiliations with several hospitals, including Valley Hospital Medical Center, Western Arizona Regional Medical Center, Desert Springs Hospital, University Medical Center, Sunrise Hospital & Medical Center, as well as the medical group, Milne And McKenzie Associates Ltd.

In addition to his role at IMS of Las Vegas, Dr. Milne serves as the Director of Medical Education at Valley Hospital Medical Center and is a faculty member of the Internal Medicine Program. His commitment to education extends to Touro University Nevada, where he has held the position of Assistant Dean of Clinical Studies and professor of Internal Medicine since August 2004.

Through his leadership at IMS of Las Vegas, Dr. C. Dean Milne continues to shape the future of healthcare by equipping new physicians with the skills and knowledge necessary to provide exceptional patient care.
