and wellness. With extensive training and certifications, he offers a unique perspective that bridges multiple specialties, ensuring that patients receive the most comprehensive treatment available.

In regard to his educational background, his extensive training began at the prestigious American University of Beirut Faculty of Medicine, where he graduated in 1982. He completed his residency in internal medicine at the University of Miami/Jackson Health System, followed by fellowships in rheumatology at the University of Colorado and allergy/immunology at Baylor College of Medicine. His diverse educational background reflects his commitment to a comprehensive understanding of the immune system and its various manifestations in different patient populations

Dr. Saadeh's impressive credentials include board certifications in internal medicine, allergy/immunology, rheumatology, and gerontology. This diverse expertise allows him to treat complex conditions that often intersect between these specialties, particularly in patients who suffer from autoimmune disorders and allergic reactions. "Many arthritic conditions are rooted in autoimmune issues, and understanding these connections enables me to provide more effective and holistic care," said Dr. Saadeh.

At Allergy A.R.T.S., he leverages his in-depth knowledge of the immune system to enhance patient care, particularly for the elderly population, who may metabolize medications differently. This understanding informs his treatment strategies, allowing for tailored approaches that are sensitive to each patient's unique needs.

Although Dr. Saadeh is "grandfathered" in allergy/immunology and rheumatology, meaning he is not required to undergo stringent recertification processes, he chooses to voluntarily recertify. Allergy A.R.T.S. is a reflection of Dr. Saadeh's vision to provide the most comprehensive and evidence-based approaches to treatment. By focusing on a multidisciplinary approach, he aims to improve the lives of his patients through better diagnosis, tailored treatment plans, and ongoing support.
