Leeds, West Yorkshire Mar 28, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - The company's refreshed product line maintains its direct-to-consumer postal delivery model while incorporating eco-friendly fabrics and components that reduce environmental impact without compromising on quality or aesthetics.

"Today's homeowners are increasingly conscious about the materials they bring into their living spaces," said a spokesperson for Blinds by Post. "By transitioning to more sustainable options, we're responding to customer preferences while maintaining our commitment to affordability and convenient delivery."

The sustainable initiative encompasses several key aspects of the company's operations:

- Integration of fabrics manufactured from recycled polyester and natural fibres
- Adoption of FSC-certified wood components for wooden blinds and pelmets
- Reduction in plastic packaging with a transition to recyclable alternatives
- Introduction of child-safe design elements across all product categories

Blinds by Post continues to offer its full range of window covering styles, including roller, venetian, vertical, and roman blinds, with its established postal delivery service reaching customers throughout the UK.

The company maintains its measuring and fitting guides online to assist customers with self-installation, ensuring the direct-to-consumer model remains accessible to all homeowners regardless of DIY experience.
