

CureRent Unveils Nation's First Real-Time Eviction-Related Violence Tracking System

Revolutionizing Property Management with Comprehensive Risk Mitigation Tools

Nashville, Tennessee Apr 1, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - CureRent, a pioneering force in property management solutions, proudly announces the launch of the United States' first national tracking system dedicated to monitoring eviction-related violence. This groundbreaking platform provides landlords, tenants, and vendors with real-time risk data, setting a new standard for safety and informed decision-making in the property management industry.

In recent years, the prevalence of eviction-related violence has escalated, with reports highlighting the severe consequences of forced displacement. Studies have shown that evictions can perpetuate poverty, disrupt lives, destabilize families, and fracture communities. Black women, in particular, are disproportionately affected, often facing higher risks of eviction and its associated traumas. The Emancipator

Recognizing the urgent need for actionable data, CureRent's innovative tracking system offers a comprehensive overview of eviction-related incidents nationwide. By equipping stakeholders with up-to-date information, the platform empowers property managers to implement proactive measures, ensuring safer environments for all parties involved.

Beyond data collection, CureRent is committed to holistic risk mitigation. The company offers specialized funds designed to support landlords and tenants in navigating potential challenges associated with property management. These financial resources, combined with expert-driven strategies, provide a robust framework for addressing and reducing risks.

"Our mission at CureRent is to transform the property management landscape by prioritizing safety and informed decision-making," said Founder/CEO Deon Trotter of CureRent. "With our real-time tracking system and comprehensive risk mitigation tools, we aim to foster a community where landlords, tenants, and vendors can operate with confidence and security."
