

Edward Stene: A Beacon of Compassionate Care at Penn State Health

Recognizing the Dedication and Expertise of a Leading Nurse in Pennsylvania

New York City, New York Feb 28, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Edward Stene, a distinguished nurse at Penn State Health, is making significant strides in patient care, demonstrating an unwavering commitment to enhancing the quality of life for those he serves. With a strong educational foundation and a passion for nursing, Stene has become a vital asset in the field of healthcare, championing the principles of communication, safety, and trust.

Stene earned his Bachelor of Science in Nursing from the University of Maryland in 2014, where he quickly distinguished himself as a dedicated student and future leader in the nursing profession. He further advanced his expertise by obtaining a Master of Science in Nursing from Duke University in 2021, specializing as an Adult Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner. Currently, he is pursuing further education at Penn State University, illustrating his commitment to lifelong learning and professional development.

Stene's dedication to nursing has not gone unnoticed. He has received numerous accolades, including the Graduation Speaker Nominee by the Duke University School of Nursing Dean in May 2021, and the Rising Star of Research and Scholarship Award by Sigma Theta Tau in March 2019. His leadership was recognized early in his career with the Leadership Award from the University of Maryland School of Nursing in 2014.

As a member of various professional societies, including the Air & Surface Transport Nurses Association and the American Association of Critical Care Nurses, Stene stays at the forefront of nursing practice and innovation. His active participation in these organizations reflects his commitment to improving healthcare standards and sharing knowledge within the nursing community.

When asked about the driving force behind his success, Stene credits his parents, saying, "My dad was a doctor, and my mom was a nurse. Their dedication to healthcare inspired me to pursue a career where I could make a difference in people's lives." This deep-rooted passion for patient care is evident in every interaction he has with patients, as he consistently strives to provide the highest level of care.

Edward Stene's dedication to nursing and his commitment to his patients exemplify the best of what the healthcare profession has to offer. Penn State Health is proud to have such a dedicated and skilled nurse on its team, making a positive impact in the lives of countless individuals in Pennsylvania and beyond.
