

The Broken Ravens Brings 'Death Findeth All', a Dark Metal Anthem for All

Good news for metal lovers as The Broken Ravens has come up with a brand new song called 'Death Findeth All'. The song is poetic, powerful, and greatly engaging.

Isle of Lewis, Feb 20, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Metal music has the ability to channel raw energy among listeners with its poetic lyrical approach and high-octane musical arrangement. Heavy metal band The Broken Ravens knows how to do it flawlessly and that is what reflects through their latest musical work 'Death Findeth All'. Somewhere between being brutal and soothing, the track works like the perfect mental anthem that everyone can chant. Based on the philosophy of life and death; the song is quite intriguing and the theme is further enhanced with a dark metallic soundscape featuring powerful guitar, drums, and of course the vocals.

The Broken Ravens stands out for its dedication to metal music with creative minds that encourage experiments. This powerful metal band is formed with Gordon Smith on the vocals, Lotto Ferguson on the bass, Kevin Clark handling drums, and Derek Healey and Thrash Macaulay on the guitars. Their united effort helps to create that thunderous energy where one can find massive riffs as well as melodic grooves. 'Death Findeth All' spans for around 5 minutes but its blistering solos and vocal intensity offer a long-lasting impact.

Hailing from the Isle of Lewis, this band is gaining attention from all around the world with its creative and original musical creations. They have recently toured in the USA by performing tracks like The Whisky A Go Go, Rainbow Bar and Grill, Double Down Saloon, and many others. The band will be participating in the coming spring events and listeners are waiting for it. Follow them on Spotify, YouTube, and Apple Music to know more.
