

Patrick Delehanty Shares the Key Principles Behind His Business Success In A New Feature Article

Tulsa, Oklahoma Mar 27, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Entrepreneur and engineer Patrick Delehanty has been featured in a newly published interview where he shares his insights on business growth, leadership, and success strategies. The interview explores his journey from military service to business ownership, highlighting his experiences in real estate, federal contracting, and advanced manufacturing.

As the founder of Delco Holdings, Villa Homes, Express Redi Mix, and Delco Devgru, Delehanty has built a diverse portfolio of businesses that have contributed to Oklahoma's expanding economy. His interview provides a rare look into the mindset, decisions, and lessons that have shaped his career.

"I've always believed that success comes from solving real problems and being willing to adapt," Delehanty said in response to the interview's publication. "Sharing my experiences is important because I know there are other entrepreneurs out there looking for guidance, just like I was when I started."

The newly released feature offers a candid and thought-provoking conversation on entrepreneurship, risk-taking, and long-term vision. Delehanty discusses the realities of business ownership, the challenges of scaling, and the key principles that have helped him build sustainable companies.

The full interview is now available online and provides valuable perspectives for entrepreneurs, business leaders, and those looking to navigate the world of innovation and investment.
