

£2.4m Acquisition to Transform Chelmsford into a Premier Hub for Entrepreneurs

Essex Entrepreneur Adam Stott To Expand Business Hub After Property Purchase

London, United Kingdom Apr 14, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - A major £2.4 million property acquisition is set to propel the ongoing regeneration of Hoffmans Way, strengthening the city's position as a thriving business hub.

Renowned business leader and entrepreneur Adam Stott, Founder of Big Business Events, has acquired the 23,500 sq. ft. Swift House at 18 Hoffmans Way. Already occupying the 11,500 sq. ft. top floor with his organisation, Stott's strategic investment marks the next phase of his vision to establish a world-class entrepreneurial coaching destination. While the remaining space is currently leased to business tenants, there is significant potential for transformation in the future.

Positioned less than a mile from Chelmsford Station, with excellent transport links, including bus stops within walking distance and a 30-minute drive to London Stansted Airport, Big Business Events are primed to welcome ambitious entrepreneurs from across the UK and beyond.

“This investment is about more than just property—it’s about leadership, vision, and taking decisive action to create opportunities,” said Stott. “Chelmsford is a city with ambition, and that aligns with my own drive for success. With a thriving business community, exceptional local talent, and a dynamic entrepreneurial spirit, it was the perfect place to expand. I look forward to welcoming even more entrepreneurs to learn, grow, and thrive here.”

Since the launch of their “How to Make it in Business” one-day event in 2016, BBE has exploded to host an average 20 events per month at their offices in Chelmsford and throughout the UK, coaching entrepreneurs on branding, marketing, sales and strategy so they can start, scale and grow their businesses. With clients from as far away as Canada and Germany, in 2025, they are on track to achieve 100% year-on-year growth, a projected £12.5m.

With a track record of inspiring business owners and a fearless approach to scaling enterprises, Stott has built Big Business Events into the UK’s leading and fastest-growing business coaching company. His influence extends beyond in-person events, with a best-selling book, Millionaire Success Secrets, a place on the Forbes Coaches’ Council, and a widely followed podcast and YouTube channel produced in his state-of-the-art studio at the venue.

Previous event and podcast guests have included Sarah Willingham from Dragon’s Den, Frank Bruno, Gemma Collins, Eamonn Holmes, and Kaye Adams. Stott has also interviewed the likes of Calvin Klein, 50 Cent, Al Pacino, and Anthony Joshua.

The acquisition of Swift House not only cements Big Business Events’ position in Chelmsford’s entrepreneurial ecosystem but also sets the stage for a bold new chapter in the city’s business landscape. Through his leadership and unwavering commitment to success, Stott continues to empower entrepreneurs, proving that with the right strategy and mindset, anything is possible.
