

Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp. Certified Under Florida CAM Help Program

Setting New Standards in Condominium Safety and Financing Through Certified Partnerships

DESIGN
BUILDER HOMES

Your Vision is Our Mission

100%
FINANCING
TO ALL HOA'S
AND CONDO ASSOCIATIONS

40/50 RECERTIFICATION,
ROOFING, IMPACT WINDOWS & DOORS, PAINTING, STRUCTURE, RAILINGS, ASPHALT & MUCH MORE

 designbuilderhomes.net  projects@designbuilderhomes.net

 1-800-554-7552

North Miami, Florida Apr 17, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp., DBA Design Builder Roofs & Design Builder Homes, is proud to announce its certification under the Florida CAM Help Program, offered by Main Source Capital, Corp. As part of the pilot program, Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp. had the privilege of undergoing the certification process, emerging as a trusted partner in the program's efforts to support condominium associations throughout Florida.

Commitment to Excellence and Safety

Having completed the lender approval process, Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp. is no stranger to rigorous reviews for residential improvement programs. However, the Florida CAM Help Program stood out due to its thoroughness, expertise, and clear passion for doing things the right way. The information requested during the certification was extensive, but the reason behind it was clear—to ensure every step of the process adhered to the highest standards of quality and safety.

What sets the Florida CAM Help Program apart is its commitment to hands-on involvement. The Main Source Capital team worked alongside Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp. every step of the way, from explaining financing options to community association managers to actively participating in special assessment meetings. "We've never witnessed a lender so deeply engaged in the success of a project," remarked Representative Michel Acosta, Head of Operations of Design Builder Roofs.

A Transformative Solution for the Condominium Market

As a seasoned commercial roofing company and general contractor with extensive experience in condominium association projects, Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp. strongly believes the Florida CAM Help Program will play a pivotal role in addressing the current challenges facing condominium associations statewide. The program's innovative approach to financing essential repairs and upgrades is helping condominium communities navigate the complexities of regulatory compliance and safety improvements.

Refining the Process for Greater Impact

During the program's soft launch in Miami-Dade and South Broward counties, Acosta Roofing Contractor Corp. collaborated with Main Source Capital's team to refine processes and overcome hurdles faced by condominium associations. The team's openness to suggestions from seasoned contractors helped streamline the program, ensuring it can provide even more effective support to communities across Florida.

"We're excited to be part of the Florida CAM Help Program and its mission to stabilize and ensure the safety of older condominium structures in South Florida," said Alix Poux from Design Builder Homes. "The program represents a significant step forward for the condominium market, and we're honored to contribute to its success."

For more information about the Florida CAM Help Program, please visit www.FloridaCAMhelp.com

Media Contact

Florida CAM Help

@floridacamhelp.com

8334226352

3105 NW 107 Ave Suite 400

Source : Florida CAM Help Program

See on IssueWire