

Glamhairartist Atakan Romano Introduces Textured Layers for Women's Hairstyles in 2025

Melbourne, Victoria Apr 6, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Atakan Romano, the renowned Glamhairartist, is introducing a new or somewhat revived hair-cutting technique to his clients called "Textured Layering." "This technique enhances natural curls and waves, allowing for versatile styling options."

Textured layering is a cutting technique that creates a natural and lived-in look. A blend of point cutting, razoring, or chipping accomplishes this effect. This technique uses irregular lengths to create movement and depth throughout a client's hair. It also removes weight from a client's hair, provides lift and volume, softens ends, and breaks up bulk.

"I love the look of texture layering," Glamhairartist Atakan Romano said. "It takes a uniform, blunt cut and breathes life into natural curls and waves. Many of my clients are busy with their careers and private lives. This type of haircut offers them a versatile and low-maintenance look."

Glamhairartist's clientele feedback regarding this current hair trend has been overwhelmingly positive. Many have expressed enthusiasm for natural looks that emphasize individuality rather than conformity. Clients appreciate Romano's ability to blend contemporary styles with classic techniques, ensuring they leave the salon feeling trendy and authentic.

Romano expertly balances creativity with client expectations by engaging in thorough consultations before styling begins. He encourages open dialogue about desired outcomes while incorporating his artistic vision into the process. This collaborative approach ensures that client's feel valued and understood, resulting in hairstyles that reflect their personalities while showcasing their creative flair.

He plans to share behind-the-scenes content from his styling sessions and tutorial techniques.
