His proficiency in underwriting, deal structuring, and contract negotiations is complemented by a keen focus on conservative investment strategies and risk assessment. This holistic approach reflects his deep understanding of the market and the long-term implications of real estate decisions.

A graduate of Arizona State University with a Degree in Political Science, Jeffrey furthered his education by obtaining an MBA in Real Estate Finance and Construction Management from the University of Denver. His international business experience across Europe, Asia, and the Middle East provides a global perspective that enhances his strategic mindset on every project he undertakes.

His commitment to building strong relationships and maintaining an expansive network of corporate contacts has been instrumental in his success. His unwavering faith, strong work ethic, and customer-first approach resonate throughout the Sky West team, ensuring that every client experience is seamless and driven by a shared dedication to excellence.

Beyond his professional responsibilities, Jeffrey is dedicated to giving back to the Reno community. He actively participates in various civic and service organizations, including the Elks Club, Knights of Columbus, Optimist Club, and Chamber of Commerce. His commitment to youth development is evident through his roles as a Reno High School coach and Cub Scout troop leader, where he fosters growth and mentorship within the community.

Outside of work and community service, Jeffrey maintains a lifelong passion for sports and the outdoors. With a background as a professional golfer and certified instructor in skiing, tennis, golf, and water skiing, he is actively involved in local athletic and faith communities. His memberships at Lakeridge Golf and Tennis Clubs and several Reno-area Catholic churches further illustrate his commitment to personal development and community engagement.
