

Mewurk Introduces Attendance Management System to Simplify Workforce Tracking

Efficiently track, manage, and record employee attendance with our smart Attendance Management System. Automate time tracking, reduce errors, ensure compliance, and improve workforce productivity with real-time insights and easy integration

Ahmedabad, Gujarat Apr 27, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Mewurk, known for its highly intuitive workforce management solutions, today announced the launch of its brand-new online attendance management system that works completely touchless. This new solution is designed to help businesses, big or small, keep track of employee work hours simply and accurately, without the need for physical clock-ins or manual interventions.

In the modern high-demand and ever-evolving work environment of today, logging accurately when employees are working is key for achieving operational consistency and getting payroll right.

Manual time tracking, even if it is digitalised and supported by real-time visibility, can still lead to errors, wasted time, and sometimes even employees clocking in for each other ("buddy punching").

Mewurk's new online attendance management system, powered by face recognition machine, aims to get rid of these headaches. It smartly uses modern tech in a way that's easy for everyone to use.

A Simpler Way to Track Time

Mewurk built this cloud-based employee attendance tracking solution to specifically deal with the problems of old-school timekeeping. Using smart technology like facial recognition and storing data securely online (in the cloud), it makes sure attendance records are correct and safe.

Although it strongly promotes the touchless option, for employees working remotely, in the field, or in offices that have yet to install the biometric system, employers can optionally enable staff to clock in via a web-based workforce time management software or mobile app using features like geofencing and selfie verification.

"We wanted to create a system that just makes sense – easy to use and accurate," said Hiren Bandari, Founder of Mewurk. "Our goal is to remove the challenges involved in attendance tracking. The system is both meticulously and purposefully built to give businesses maximum flexibility and efficiency. Whether your team works in the office, from home, or a mix of both, Mewurk can fit right in."

What Mewurk's Employee Attendance Management System Offers:

Mewurk's online attendance management system comes packed with practical features designed to be flexible for different types of businesses:

- See Who's Working Now: The system offers real-time updates on who has clocked in or out, and the insights are visible instantly online. This is a great advantage for managers needing to see current staffing levels, especially across different locations or with remote teams.
- Set Your Own Rules: The digital HR attendance monitoring tool allows for setting up specific attendance policies (over 50 options available). You can tailor rules for different types of employees (full-time, part-time), work setups (office, remote), or locations, covering things like shift timings, overtime rules, and grace periods for being late.
- Connects with Other Tools: The staff clock-in system links up smoothly with Mewurk's other tools for payroll, managing time off (leave), and planning work schedules. This means there are fewer repetitive manual data entry tasks and fewer mistakes.
- AI-Powered Biometric Machine: A standout feature of Mewurk's attendance management system is its inclusion of a facial recognition biometric machine, which provides a secure, hands-free option for clocking in. We have optimized it for efficiency and designed it to be perfect for busy workplaces, making it straightforward to use.
- Mobile App Access: Employees working outside the office or travelling can easily clock in and out using the Mewurk mobile app. For added accuracy with remote or field staff, it includes GPS tracking and geo-fencing (setting virtual boundaries).
- Helpful Reports: The automated employee time and attendance system provides managers with access to clear reports showing attendance details, patterns of absence, punctuality records, and other useful information. Looking at weekly or monthly trends, they can spot issues and plan staffing better.
- Easy Fixes: If someone forgets to clock in or there's a mistake in the timing in the remote staff clock-in and tracking platform, it can be corrected quickly through a simple online request and approval process, which simplifies payroll handling without extra fuss.

Good for the Company, Good for the Staff

Mewurk designed this system to be helpful for everyone. While it enables businesses to save time, cut down on payroll errors, and stay compliant with work rules, employees appreciate it for offering a clear and easy way to manage their own attendance records, check their hours, and request any corrections if needed.

"We started using Mewurk's employee attendance management system about six months back, and it's really changed things for us," shared Rajesh Patel, HR Manager at a medium-sized manufacturing company. "Being a cloud-based workforce time tracking solution, we can easily track everyone, whether they're on the factory floor or working remotely. Getting it set up was simple, too, thanks to their support team."

Guided Onboarding Support Provided

Mewurk is committed to making the switch easy for every business and team. The company provides thorough training for managers and staff who will use the HR time and attendance system and offers ongoing support to help with any questions that come up.

"We know switching systems can seem like a big step," Hiren added. "That's why we offer hands-on training and make sure help is available whenever our clients need it. We want them to get the most out of our online employee time management tool."

Try It Out: Early Access Available

Mewurk invites businesses interested in improving their attendance tracking to sign up for its Early Access Program. Participants get a first look at the employee attendance management system and receive extra support to tailor it perfectly for their company's needs.

About Mewurk

Mewurk provides cloud-based HR and workforce management solutions which simplify attendance tracking, leave management, payroll, and shift scheduling. Focusing on practical innovation and customer happiness, Mewurk offers tools designed to simplify HR tasks and create a better experience for both employers and employees.

Media Contact

Mewurk Technologies Private Limited

@mewurk.com

9512326261

B 203, Shapath Hexa, SG Hwy, Sola

Source : Mewurk Technologies Private Limited

See on IssueWire