

AskHorace.com Launches Nationwide Campaign for Exclusive State Agents in the U.S. Education Market

New EdTech platform offers state-exclusive sales rights with low entry cost and high commission potential for local entrepreneurs and advertising professionals.

OPPORTUNITIES

State Exclusive Agents

Larnaca, Cyprus May 14, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - AskHorace.com, a new U.S.-based educational advertising platform, is inviting applications for exclusive State Agent opportunities across all 50 states. With a focus on delivering affordable, high-impact digital advertising to the K-12 and college education sector, AskHorace.com offers agents the chance to secure their state's territory for a one-time low-cost license and earn 60% commission on all advertising sales.

"Each State Agent gets exclusive rights to sell digital ads within their territory," said Richard Ward, founder of AskHorace.com. "They keep the majority of the income and benefit from our central website infrastructure, national brand, and streamlined ad display system designed for schools."

AskHorace.com emphasizes a lean model: Agents manage local relationships and ad sales, while the central team handles hosting, technical support, and billing. State licenses start at just $1,495, with no hidden fees.

The platform is designed to help schools discover useful products and services while offering businesses direct access to the education sector without the need for expensive, print-based advertising or mass email campaigns.

AskHorace.com is now accepting inquiries from independent professionals, consultants, and advertising agencies interested in controlling their state's exclusive digital education directory.
