

Christine Kannler, MD, MPH: A Leader in Dermatology and Mohs Micrographic Surgery

Pioneering Mohs Surgery Expertise While Giving Back to the Community

New York City, New York May 9, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Dr. Christine Kannler, a board-certified dermatologist specializing in Mohs Micrographic Surgery, continues to make significant strides in the field of dermatology while also dedicating herself to community service.

With a medical degree and a Master's in Public Health from Boston University (2000), Dr. Kannler's journey in medicine began early, achieving early acceptance into medical school as a sophomore through the prestigious MMEDIC program.

Her extensive training includes completing her internal medicine residency at Boston Medical Center and a dermatology residency that included serving as co-chief resident at Wright State University. She completed her fellowship in Mohs Micrographic Surgery under Dr. Donald Grande, a leader in the field, where she assisted in over a thousand surgeries, honing her skills in skin cancer removal and reconstruction.

Dr. Kannler is an active member of several esteemed organizations, including the American Academy of Dermatology (AAD) and the American Society for Dermatologic Surgery (ASDS). Her leadership roles within the AAD Task Forces and the New Hampshire Society of Dermatology highlight her commitment to advancing the field. She has received numerous accolades, such as the American Society for Dermatologic Surgery Resident Fellowship and the Women's Dermatological Society Mentorship Program, recognizing her dedication to both her profession and mentorship.

Currently practicing in North Andover, Manchester, and Bedford, NH, Dr. Kannler is renowned for her compassionate approach to patient care. "I enjoy listening to my patients and strive to help them," she states, underscoring her commitment to exceptional dermatological care. Her expertise in Mohs Micrographic Surgery allows her to provide the most effective treatment options for skin cancer, ensuring optimal patient outcomes.

Beyond her clinical practice, Dr. Kannler is deeply committed to philanthropy. She serves as a volunteer dermatologist for the SPOTme initiative, providing skin screenings and education for professional firefighters in Massachusetts since 2018. This initiative exemplifies her dedication to community health and her desire to give back to those who serve.

Dr. Kannler's contributions extend to academia as well, where she shares her knowledge as a guest lecturer at Boston University School of Medicine and as a preceptor for the University of New Hampshire's Primary Care of Families program. Her published articles on melanoma risk and surgical techniques further demonstrate her commitment to advancing dermatological science.

In her personal life, Dr. Kannler enjoys traveling, hiking, reading, and spending quality time with her family, including her daughter and son.
