

Craig Shults Featured In Inspiring Interview On Resilience And Growth

Staying True To Core Values Through Every Career Pivot

Los Angeles, California May 29, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Craig Shults, Controller and CFO at JSL Construction, is the focus of a new exclusive interview titled "Staying True Through Change: A Look at Craig Shults' Journey." In this honest and insightful feature, Craig shares how embracing discomfort, remaining accountable, and staying true to personal values have shaped his leadership style and career growth.

Born and raised in the Mohawk Valley of Upstate New York, Craig's career journey has been anything but linear. From early beginnings in the insurance industry to roles in home improvement sales, and later into finance and construction leadership, every chapter of his story reveals a commitment to growth and resilience.

"I realized early that comfort zones are traps," Craig says in the interview. "You have to be willing to step into the unknown if you want to keep moving forward."

Throughout the feature, Craig reflects on how setbacks played a critical role in his development. Rather than seeing challenges as roadblocks, he saw them as opportunities to rethink, adjust, and grow stronger. He shares his belief that leadership starts long before a title is earned, rooted in daily actions, ownership, and supporting the growth of others.

"You don't need a title to lead," Craig says. "It's about showing up, being accountable, and helping others grow along with you."

In his current role at JSL Construction, Craig uses these principles daily. Whether leading financial strategies, mentoring newer employees, or supporting team development, he focuses on presence, communication, and clear leadership. His philosophy extends beyond the office as well, where he balances work with fitness, cooking, travel, and charitable efforts, supporting organizations like the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and Make-A-Wish Foundation.

"If you stop learning, you start slipping backward," Craig says. "There's always a way to get better if you're willing to stay curious."

This feature offers a thoughtful glimpse into Craig Shults' approach to leadership, personal growth, and the mindset needed to succeed through life's inevitable changes.

About Craig Shults

Craig Shults is a finance and leadership professional based in Orange County, California. With a career that spans insurance, sales, finance, and construction, he is known for his commitment to accountability, growth, and mentoring others. Craig holds an Associate's Degree in General Business and a Paralegal Certificate from Blackstone Career Institute. He actively supports charitable causes and emphasizes continuous learning in both his personal and professional life.

To read the full interview, click here.

Contact: info@craigshults.com

Media Contact

Craig Shults

@craigshults.com

Source : Craig Shults

See on IssueWire

