

FoundCall Launches Pet Adoption Partner Program to Help Keep Newly Adopted Pets Safe

Sacramento, California May 11, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - FoundCall, a nonprofit organization dedicated to reuniting lost pets with their families, has launched its new Pet Adoption Partner Program to support shelters and rescues in reducing the risk of pet loss immediately after adoption.

Studies and rescue professionals alike have long noted a troubling trend: newly adopted pets are significantly more likely to run away within the first few days of arriving at their new homes. These early days are often full of stress and unfamiliarity, which increases the chances of escape.

To address this, FoundCall's program provides free lifetime accounts to adopters through participating shelters and rescues. Each account includes 3 FoundCall smart, privacy-protecting phone numbers. If a pet goes missing, anyone who finds them can quickly reach the owner or a trusted contact—no app, no microchip scanner, and no personal phone number required.

"We designed FoundCall to be as simple and effective as possible," said Ric Allinson, CEO of FoundCall. "We're proud to offer a solution that protects pet owners' privacy while also making it faster and easier to bring pets home, especially when they're still adjusting to a new life."

Key Features of the Pet Adoption Partner Program:

- Free FoundCall accounts for all adopters through participating organizations
- Smart contact number that routes calls to owners or backup contacts
- No subscription or app required for finders or pet owners
- Printable starter kits for rescues to include in adoption packets

FoundCall is currently inviting shelters and rescue organizations across the U.S. to join the program. Eligible 501(c)(3) nonprofits can register by emailing support@foundcall.org with their EIN number and average monthly adoption rate.
