

Mariana Donnelly Joins Cast of Little Miss Perfect Following LA Web Fest Win

Harlingen, Texas May 20, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Rising star Mariana Donnelly, known by her stage name “That’s So Mariana,” has officially joined the cast of the upcoming feature film Little Miss Perfect, directed by Joe Aor Rios. The casting announcement was made by Rios on social media, marking a significant milestone in Donnelly’s burgeoning career.

This exciting development comes shortly after Donnelly’s standout performance in the short film White & Black Canvas, which earned her the “Best Performance” award at the 16th Annual LA Web Fest held in early May. The film, directed by Luis Antonio Rodriguez, garnered three nominations at the festival, including Best Short and Best Director.

A native of Harlingen, Texas, Donnelly has been making waves in the entertainment industry with her multifaceted talents spanning acting, music, and dance. Her recent accolade at the LA Web Fest has further solidified her status as a rising talent to watch.

Little Miss Perfect is slated to begin shooting in July, with Donnelly’s involvement generating considerable buzz among fans and industry insiders alike. While details about her role remain under wraps, her recent achievements suggest a compelling performance ahead.

As Donnelly continues to build on her impressive portfolio, her participation in Little Miss Perfect marks another significant step in a promising career. Audiences eagerly await her next performance, anticipating the unique blend of talent and charisma she brings to the screen.
