Murder. Mischief. Morphine. Welcome to Cookie Mews - Where Protocols Are Just Suggestions!

North Belfast, Ireland – Get ready for a twisted, hilarious, and utterly unpredictable ride through chaos, cocktails, and crime with the new dark comedy novel, Murderous CaLaMiTy @cookiemews: What's the Protocol? – a lockdown-era caper that asks: How many Residents can one woman murder before the police catch on?

Meet Nell Penny, a woman on a lethal mission. Ten residents. One million quid. And a pandemic lockdown that makes sneaking around Cookie Mews even harder than hiding a body. But with drug-laced cookies, staff sexcapades, and a growing police presence, Nell's master plan starts slipping like a blood-soaked soap in the shower.

Set on June 5th, 2020, when the world was indoors but Nell was anything but contained, this novel weaves together forbidden love, unholy temptations, a swingers club on the brink, and enough breaches of Covid protocol to make your mask slip in shock. Will Father Peter's divine wisdom save Nell from herself? Can Dr. Brad and Lance stop causing chaos long enough to be of any use? And will Nell's unfaithful husband Charlie—and his betrayal with her best friend, be the final straw before she loses her head, literally?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Sharon is a fearless new voice in dark comedy fiction, blending sharp wit, outrageous twists, and emotional depth into stories that grab readers by the collar and don't let go. Hailing from Northern Ireland, Sharon brings her unique perspective and unfiltered humor to every page, crafting characters who are as messy, bold, and human as real life only a lot more dangerous. With a background in healthcare and a wicked sense of irony, Sharon draws inspiration from the chaos of everyday life, transforming it into unforgettable fiction filled with scandal, satire, and the occasional seductive priest. Murderous CaLaMiTy @cookiemews: What's the Protocol? is her deliciously dark debut, and she's just getting started.
