

Quicklly Changes the Online Indian Grocery Landscape by Partnering With Major Online Platforms

Chicago, Illinois Jun 18, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Quicklly, the nation's most comprehensive South Asian marketplace, is transforming the way Indian grocery stores connect with their customers. As a one-stop fully integrated digital marketplace partner, Quicklly is elevating the Indian online grocery experience, helping businesses scale, thrive, and serve their communities like never before while making it easier for their customers to access their favorite stores through their preferred grocery delivery apps. Quicklly has partnered with DoorDash, Instacart, Uber, and Grubhub. With one contract, one pricing, and one integration, Indian grocery stores can be live across all the top online platforms in the U.S.

"For many Indian grocery store owners, unlocking ecommerce revenues has been an uphill battle," shares Pritesh Velankar, COO at Quicklly. "Contract negotiations, technology integrations, inventory onboarding, creating digital storefronts and once launched, managing online orders and handling logistics across multiple ecommerce platforms can be extremely overwhelming. Quicklly takes all these complexities away from the store owners, allowing them to focus on their retail stores."

As a digital marketplace platform, Quicklly optimizes inventory listings, enhances digital storefronts, and ensures that each grocery store's unique offerings are highlighted to attract the right customers. For consumers, this means greater accessibility to fresh, high-quality Indian groceries without the hassle of long drives or multiple store visits.

"With just a few clicks, Quicklly enabled us to generate revenues from multiple e-grocery platforms," said the owner of a chain of Maharaja Supermarket stores in Queens, NY. "And Quicklly's Account Management team is accessible 24/7 to assist us with what we need."

Quicklly's impact extends beyond just business growth; it is helping preserve Indian grocery stores as cultural hubs within their communities. They still continue to be a touchpoint of tradition, albeit digital. By enabling easy access to these stores through major grocery delivery platforms, Quicklly is ensuring that authentic South Asian ingredients gain widespread availability and accessibility to consumers nationwide.

Quicklly's expansion across most of the top metros in the U.S. has already helped numerous Indian grocery stores scale their operations and achieve higher sales volumes. The platform's ability to connect these stores with grocery delivery giants represents a positive shift in how specialized grocery markets can leverage digital platforms to sustain and grow their businesses. By continuing to innovate and expand its network, Quicklly remains at the forefront of transforming the Indian grocery retail experience in the U.S.
