

Alexander Yakush, Founder of Avix Jets and Morfi Matrix, Offers the Best Terms for Brokers in the Global Aviation Market

Avix Jets introduces up to 70% commission for aviation brokers and announces development of an AI platform to streamline private jet operations

New York City, New York Jun 9, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Alexander Yakush, founder of the private aviation company Avix Jets and technology firm Morfi Matrix, has announced the launch of a global broker partnership program. The company is already offering commission rates of up to 70% and actively onboarding brokers from around the world, regardless of country or language.

According to Avix Jets, the initiative aims to establish a clear and long-term collaboration model in the private aviation sector—one that offers transparent terms and fair, performance-based compensation. The program is designed to build a strong global broker network and eliminate common barriers that hinder efficiency and trust in the industry.

“We analyzed how broker relationships currently operate and saw the opportunity to implement a more structured and balanced system,” said Alexander Yakush, founder of Avix Jets. “Our approach is built on clarity, trust, and global accessibility—so that brokers anywhere in the world can work in a straightforward and supportive environment, no matter what language they speak.”

In parallel, Avix Jets—together with Morfi Matrix—is developing a proprietary AI-powered digital platform. The system will automate essential workflows such as flight pricing, aircraft availability, client onboarding, and end-to-end booking. The platform is designed for international use and aims to reduce manual workload while increasing operational efficiency for both brokers and clients.

Founded in 2025 and headquartered in New York, Avix Jets operates globally, serving clients across the United States, Europe, the Middle East, and Asia. Further details about the broker program and AI platform are expected to be released in Q3 2025.
