Crescent Lake, Lake Clark National Park

This trip will begin in Nikiski, Alaska, near Kenai, where we will fly a floatplane for a breathtaking 40 minutes across Cook Inlet and through the Chigmit Mountains of the Alaska range. Bear Viewing in Alaska will fly over Redoubt Volcano, several glaciers, and mountain ridges off our wing tips. After landing on a large, beautiful lake in the mountains, we will load into a small Jon boat and cruise the coast looking for bears. The bears come to the shoreline to feed on the salmon. This trip can also be combined with salmon fishing.

From Kenai, this trip is also accessible by float plane, and the flight takes just 15 minutes. After landing on Big River Lakes we will board a small Jon Boat and run over to a small creek where salmon are congregated we will stay in the boat the entire time waiting for a bear to come out to try to catch a fish, we usually always see bears on this trip but mostly small sub adult cubs that have just been kicked out from mom.
