

Becci Hannigan, RN, MSN-Ed, CVRN, CCRN: A Beacon of Excellence in Nursing Leadership and Immunization Expertise

Chief Nurse with Houston Health Department's Immunization Bureau Sets New Standards in Community Health

New York City, New York Jun 10, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - The Houston Health Department proudly announces the continued leadership of Becci Hannigan, RN, MSN-Ed, CVRN, CCRN, as Chief Nurse of its Immunization Bureau. With an impressive background in cardiovascular and critical care nursing, Becci has demonstrated an unwavering commitment to patient care, making her an invaluable asset to the City of Houston and the broader healthcare community.

Becci's nursing career began in 1998 when she earned her Associate Degree in Nursing from Houston Community College. This foundational education ignited her passion for nursing and patient advocacy. Over the years, Becci has cultivated her skills and knowledge, culminating in a Master of Science in Nursing with a focus on Nursing Education from Walden University in 2013. Her dedication to continuous learning has not only enriched her career but has also inspired those around her.

As a Registered Nurse, Certified Cardiovascular Registered Nurse, and Critical Care Registered Nurse, Becci has excelled in various roles throughout her career, including intensive care units and as a master trainer in information technology. Her relentless drive to excel is matched only by her exceptional attention to detail, which has earned her a reputation for excellence among her peers and patients alike.

In her role as Chief Nurse with the Houston Health Department's Immunization Bureau, Becci leads initiatives that enhance immunization practices and public health education, ensuring that the city's residents receive the best possible care. Her expertise in immunization is especially crucial as the community navigates ongoing public health challenges.

Becci is a proud member of esteemed professional organizations such as Sigma Theta Tau, the international honor society of nursing, and the Golden Key International Honour Society. Her involvement in these organizations underscores her commitment to academic excellence, leadership, and the advancement of nursing as a profession.

"Being a nurse is not just a job; it's a calling," Becci states. "I am dedicated to exceeding expectations in every role I take on and ensuring that our community receives the highest standard of care."

With her unwavering dedication to excellence, continuous professional development, and accountability, Becci Hannigan remains a beacon of leadership and innovation in the field of nursing. The Houston Health Department's Immunization Bureau is proud to have her at the helm, guiding the future of healthcare in our city.
