

From Shadows to Strategy: Sid De Beer Unveils a Gripping CIA Thriller Trilogy That Speaks to Today's Global Threats

Tomah, Wisconsin Jun 3, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Former executive-turned-author Sid De Beer delivers a thought-provoking trilogy of international thrillers—White Fright, Right on the Edge, and Pursuance of Justice—that has captivated readers and critics alike. Known for weaving high-stakes suspense with global political realism, De Beer’s Modern International CIA Thrillers place readers at the frontline of the world’s most urgent geopolitical dilemmas.

Spanning decades of conceptual incubation and sparked by the quiet chaos of the COVID-19 pandemic, De Beer finally fulfilled a lifelong dream of writing—one inspired by his fascination with the CIA and global intelligence work. “I’ve wanted to write a book for over 45 years,” says De Beer. “But only after retirement and the lockdowns did I finally sit down and do it.”

The result? A trilogy that is not only pulse-pounding but also deeply reflective of the turbulent modern world.

About the Books

- White Fright kicks off the series with a harrowing race against time, as the CIA faces off against a cunning enemy with plans of global domination. At its core is a terrifying possibility: the detonation of multiple nuclear warheads in space—a threat with civilization-ending consequences.
- Right on the Edge continues the saga with a geopolitical standoff brimming with themes of military recklessness, fragile diplomacy, and global brinksmanship. The novel invites readers to consider the thin line between peace and total war in an age of escalating power politics.
- Pursuance of Justice introduces a retired CIA operative who takes justice into his own hands. De Beer tackles the flaws of the global justice system, exploring what happens when institutional accountability fails and personal morality steps in.

Critics worldwide have praised De Beer for his daring storytelling and timely insight. With crisp pacing, credible characters, and scenarios that reflect real-world tensions, his books entertain while prompting reflection on justice, leadership, and the ethical gray zones of espionage.

About the Author

Sid De Beer was born in Johannesburg, South Africa, in 1950 and moved to Melbourne, Australia, in 1993. A successful former CEO in the office products industry, De Beer has been married to his wife Nadine for 47 years. They now enjoy retirement in Melbourne, surrounded by their three daughters and seven grandchildren. When he’s not writing, Sid explores his artistic side through his work in the “Dutch Pour” painting technique, continuing to express creativity across multiple disciplines.

With his trilogy, De Beer proves it’s never too late to pursue a passion—and in doing so, he offers readers stories that are as thrilling as they are intellectually and morally resonant.

Message from the Author

“The books deal with pressing issues facing the world today and the CIA is called upon to keep America safe. Read how the CIA agent solved numerous issues and how he deals with the Russian and North Korean leaders and the part he plays to avoid a nuclear confrontation with Russia.”

Previous Promotional Activities

Sid De Beer's thrilling body of work has already begun making waves in literary and media circles. A professionally crafted press release and PowerPoint presentation by Fawcett Publications helped introduce his gripping CIA thrillers to international audiences with flair and sophistication.

In a recent high-profile feature on the Prime Seven Media Spotlight, De Beer joined esteemed host Logan Crawford for a compelling TV interview. There, he offered deep insights into the adrenaline-charged world of his novels, discussing everything from geopolitical intrigue to the moral dilemmas that shadow international espionage. The conversation brought De Beer's thought-provoking narratives to life, highlighting the timely relevance and emotional intensity woven throughout White Fright, Right on the Edge, and Pursuance of Justice.
