Spot Johnie Marx, invites readers into a heartwarming journey between a father and son, told through moments of bonding, learning, and legacy. Published by Lone Blue Wolf Publishing, this story uplifts the image of Black fatherhood with love, authenticity, and joy.

The book follows a young boy and his father as they spend a day together filled with meaningful conversation and shared wisdom. Whether discussing life's challenges, laughing together, or simply enjoying each other's company, the story gently emphasizes the impact of presence, listening, and generational guidance.

"This book is a tribute to the fathers who show up—not only with their time but with their heart," said the author, a Houston-based certified teacher writing under the pen name Spot Johnie Marx. "It's a reminder that the ordinary moments are often the ones that shape a child's world the most."

Written with lyrical warmth and accompanied by expressive illustrations, A Day with Dad is designed for children ages 5–9 and their families. The book speaks to a wide audience, particularly those seeking stories that reflect the positive roles Black fathers play in their children's lives.

Lone Blue Wolf Publishing, founded by educator and author Raoul Jones, is committed to producing stories that affirm Black identity, strengthen family literacy, and broaden cultural representation in children's literature. Through storytelling that feels both familiar and inspiring, the publishing house continues to build a catalog centered on heart, heritage, and hope.
