Kristina McGahan
MSN, APRN, WHNP-BC

Las Vegas, Nevada Jun 17, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - The High Risk Pregnancy Center (HRPC), a Hera Women's Health Center of Excellence, is proud to announce the addition of Kristina McGahan, MSN, APRN, WHNP-BC, to its maternal-fetal medicine team. As Nevada's leading provider of high-risk pregnancy care, HRPC continues to strengthen its commitment to delivering expert, compassionate, and continuous care for women at every stage of their maternal journey.

Kristina brings over two decades of labor and delivery experience to her role as a Women's Health Nurse Practitioner, expanding the center's capacity to provide personalized, relationship-based care. Her clinical background and dedication to patient education help bridge a critical gap in maternal care—ensuring patients feel supported, informed, and empowered throughout their healthcare journey.

"At the High Risk Pregnancy Center, we are committed to delivering care that is both advanced and deeply compassionate," said Dr. Brian Iriye, Medical Director of HRPC. "Kristina McGahan brings a unique blend of hands-on experience and a patient-centered approach that aligns perfectly with our mission. Her dedication to education and empowerment will help us continue to improve the lives of the women we serve."

Throughout her 20-year career, Kristina has supported more than 1,000 women through pregnancy, birth, and postpartum recovery. She earned her Master of Science in Nursing from Regis College in 2024 and is board certified as a Women's Health Nurse Practitioner. Known for her compassionate, collaborative care, Kristina centers each patient's voice in the decision-making process, offering thoughtful guidance and respect at every step.

Her presence enhances HRPC's multidisciplinary model—which includes genetic counseling, behavioral health, and diabetes management—by fostering long-term relationships that extend well beyond the hospital stay. Kristina's clinical insight and deep empathy are particularly valuable in addressing the emotional and educational needs of women navigating high-risk pregnancies.

Serving patients across Las Vegas, Henderson, and Reno, Kristina strengthens HRPC's mission to deliver culturally responsive and accessible care to a growing and diverse population. Her journey from bedside nurse to advanced practice provider reflects a strong commitment to lifelong learning, professional excellence, and improving women's health outcomes.

Kristina McGahan is now seeing patients at the High Risk Pregnancy Center. Whether you are in the early stages of pregnancy, managing a complex diagnosis, or preparing for postpartum care, Kristina and the HRPC team are here to support you with expert, compassionate care.
